

Doing the right things:
page 28

Left to right: Jane Coomber of Dagenham Jobcentre and Wilson Chowdhry, MD of AA Security. His Essex-based guarding firm has been awarded the Disability Symbol for commitment to giving people with disabilities equal opportunities in the workplace

Contents

12 A CHRISTIE'S CORNUCOPIA

Auction house Christie's handles some of the most must-have objects in the world - paintings, jewels, a rare Star Wars imperial stormtrooper's helmet. Una Riley talks to the head of global security.

28 13 MONTHS AND COUNTING

The Security Industry Authority has fired the starting pistol for contract guard licences, urging the industry to get some training in before the March 2006 deadline. We report views on the ground and digest what you need to know.

48 PREPARE AND SURVIVE

When the worst happens, either to you or your neck of the woods - what does Security have to do? The 'worst' need not be a catastrophe like a terror attack to affect, even ruin, your organisation. Best prepare in advance, we hear.

60 BOOZE HEADACHE

Our regular columnist Ken Rogers points an accusing finger at the drinks industry as responsible for late-night town and city centre disorder. What will proposed 24-hour opening, and a new pub licensing regime, bring? he wonders.

A City prepared?: from page 48

CONTINUED OVER ➔